Night at the Opera by Martha Wells. Reynard Morane was at his usual table in the Cafe Baudy, a somewhat risqué establishment built on a barge in the Deval Forest pleasure garden's lake, when a beautiful man approached his table. FIRST EDITION PUBLISHER'S NOTE. The artist's eye and philosopher's spirit which are Roerich's, are as a magnet. Drawn by their power, there flows into Roerich's being a stream of experiences which he is able to transmute into beauty by that spiritual alchemy which is possessed by the teachers of men. "India is the world's most ancient civilization. Nowhere on earth can you find such a rich and multi-layered tradition that has remained unbroken and largely unchanged for at least five thousand years. To S.A. I loved you, so I drew these tides of men into my hands and wrote my will across the sky in stars To earn you Freedom, the seven-pillared worthy house, that your eyes might be shining for me When we came. - Sword Nights Dark Tales From The Pillared Worlds
