Page 12 - As Premier of Japan, I have stated and I now again state to the people of America and of the world that Japan has no ulterior motive, no desire to secure more territory, no thought of depriving China or other peoples of anything which they now possess. The Shandong question arose when Japan, as an ally of Britain, seized the German concession at Shandong at the outbreak of the first world war. At the 1919 Versailles Conference, President Wilson tried hard to reach an agreement that would allow both China and Japan to 'save face' while preserving China's territorial integrity.
