In theory, retirement is a time to kick back and relax, but sometimes it doesn't work that way. Some retirees still want to work, whether to supplement their incomes, add structure to the day or just get out of the house. Plenty of jobs exist for seniors not ready for full-time retirement. Apartment Guide Editorial Team. The Apartment Guide Blog is your premier source for all things apartment related. From your initial search to your next move and everything in between, we've got you covered with all the tips, tricks and advice you're looking for. It seems like most television remote controls today come with about 600 buttons and are painfully confusing to operate. If you're in the market for a simple remote that's easy to see, simple to use and durable, you're in luck. Americans make plenty of mistakes when it comes to planning for retirement, the biggest of which is not saving enough. In fact, a recent GOBankingRates survey found more than half of Americans will retire broke. Even if you have made saving a priority, however, you still can make missteps once you leave the 9-to-5 that will put a comfortable retirement at risk. - Making Your Home Senior-friendly
