Meanwhile-- back to the child : what are we doing for the needs of the kindergarten child today?. [Elizabeth Kjørlaug Wolf]We Need to Make Kindergarten Engaging Again Are we diminishing our children's sense of wonder? By Christopher Brown, Ph.D. Posted Nov 27, 2018Kindergarten is hard work—as much for little bodies as little brains. “The term we use is whole child development, which includes physical, cognitive, social and emotional components,” says Guddemi. For the physical part, kids need to run and climb and, occasionally, fall (think: cause and effect). - Meanwhile...back To The Child: What Are We Doing For The Needs Of The Kindergarten Child Today
